

Pro4ia provides expert Technology Project Management and proven Technology Consulting Services through experienced “Subject Matter Experts” to Fortune 1000 corporations as well as small and medium sized businesses (SMB).

Pro4ia’s Principals, who have extensive IT knowledge and experience in various vertical industries including Financial, Pharmaceutical, Entertainment, and Medical among others, founded the company to address needs that were clearly evident throughout the industry:

- The need for project management skills as a whole within the industry are causing some of the best project ideas to fail with huge impacts to an organization’s budget and livelihood.
- The increased demand for true technology “Subject Matter Experts” within the industry.
- The increasing importance and reliance of data and communications of all types for an organization to stay competitive in the global marketplace.
- The massive growth of technical partnering from the previous prevalent support models (both in-house support model as well as outsourced support model).

Pro4ia has grown into a dynamic and highly skilled team of professional consultants and has successfully completed technology projects nationally and internationally. Pro4ia’s headquarters is based in New York City and has a satellite office in Atlanta, GA.

Our approach with our clients is a personal one. Our commitment stems from the Pro4ia culture that treats each project as an important extension of your business, no matter what the size or scope. Pro4ia Principals are engaged throughout the life of a project offering expertise, knowledge of previous project outcomes and guidance. This approach consistently delivers and exceeds all customer expectations.

Pro4ia’s outstanding reputation within the project management and technology arena is the direct result of our professionalism and consistent record of delivering projects on time, within budget, with minimal disruption to the business. In addition, our experts have worked in consultant as well as client capacities – this unique combination allows our team to seamlessly integrate into your existing environment to deliver results.

Projects that are properly managed and have the right resources engaged never fail. Call us to make even your most complex projects a reality.
